Hydraulic Power Pack

A hydraulic power pack is a system comprising an interconnected set of discrete components that transport liquid. The purpose of this Hydraulic Power pack system may be to control where fluid flows (as in a network of tubes of coolant in a thermodynamic system) or to control fluid pressure (as in hydraulic amplifiers).

For example, hydraulic machinery uses hydraulic circuits (in which hydraulic fluid is pushed, under pressure, through hydraulic pumps,

Hydraulic cylinder get their power from pressurized hydraulic fluid, which is typically oil. The hydraulic cylinder consists of a cylinder barrel, in which a piston connected to a piston rod moves back and forth. The barrel is closed on one end by the cylinder bottom (also called the cap) and the other end by the cylinder head (also called the gland) where the piston rod comes out of the cylinder.

The piston has sliding rings and seals. The piston divides the inside of the Hydraulic cylinder into two chambers, the bottom chamber (cap end) and the piston rod side chamber.
